Whitey Ford Wins Praise

But Ruark Wouldn't Buy Robeson, Davis

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—There are some allied topics here, which I would like to lump, loosely, under a general heading. One touches that bulky artist, Paul Robeson, the avowed Communist-loving patriot who falsely claims spokesmanship for his race.

Another skips lightly over a nice and competent kid, Whitey Ford, the ex-Yankee pitcher, and still another fastens onto the junior cause celebre, Alfred Bergdoll, and finally we could touch mildly on a professional football player, ex-lieutenant Glenn Davis, somewhere, deep in the heap, we got a healthy moral.

In the modern emergency Mr. Robeson is as worthy of internment as any Jap who got penned away in the last war, since by his own lusty baritone he is an enemy of his own country and a passionate espouser of those people who are now declared enemies. Mr. Robeson is pressing a suit against the state department, naming Dean Acheson as the chief, to restore his passport so that he may travel abroad, and, doubtless, continue to malign the land of his birth.

Has Broad Education
Robeson was born in 1898, according to Who's Who. He got an A. B. at Rutgers during World War I, in 1919 which made him old enough for that war. He has an LL. B. from Columbia; an L. H. D., honorary, from Hamilton college; an honorary M. A. from Rutgers; an honorary L. H. D., Moorehouse; and an honorary doctor of humane letters from Howard. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Phi Alpha, Sigma Tau Delta. Four-letter man, Rutgers. Picked by Walter Camp as All-America. You know of his professional career as singer and actor. Did not fight in W. W. II.

Mr. Robeson has done nothing

Revival of Community Chest is Proposed In Delta County

REVIVAL of the Community Chest as a means of eliminating some of the duplication of efforts in multiple charity drives was proposed at the Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting Tuesday morning. The proposal is one that was certain to come sooner or later in view of the general dissatisfaction in the community with the numerous fund raising drives.

Public apathy caused the abandonment of the Community Chest. The Chest failed to reach its quota two successive years although the amount raised proved sufficient to carry the participating agencies through their fiscal years. When it came time to organize the fund-raising drive last year, it was apparent that there was lacking the general support that was necessary for success. The number of workers had shrunk and there were definite evidences that donors were reducing their contributions.

The participating agencies then had no choice except to organize their own fund raising campaign.

If the Community Chest is to be revived, it will have to be accomplished on a basis that guarantees sufficient workers to "beat the bushes" for the funds that are needed. A program of education also will be necessary by industrialists and business firms to convince their employees that a contribution of one dollar for the Community Chest is inadequate to support six or seven welfare agencies.

The Community Chest to be successful must be a project of all the people, not merely a few.

We May Lose Asia To Save Europe

NO responsible citizen in the free world likes to contemplate the loss of virtually all Asia to Russian communism. It would be an economic, political and strategic defeat of colossal proportions.

Yet all western leaders concede it will be hard to avert this outcome now that Red China has committed major parts of its armed forces to the Korean battle. Nothing short of all-out war against China is likely to block seriously the flow of communism across Southeast Asia.

There are some highly esteemed men who believe we should make that effort—whatever the cost in blood and treasure. They believe the free nations might never be able to offset the handicap of losing Asia to Russia.

But it is thoroughly clear that President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Premier Plevin of France do not share that view. They believe that Europe is the primary theater of decision in the struggle against the Soviet Union. And they are convinced any full-scale commitment against Red China would pose the grave danger of leaving Europe almost defenseless.

It's important for us to understand why Europe is the key region, why our leaders would rather see all Asia go down before allowing European nations to slide into the Red abyss.

This is the reason: In a broad triangle of land embracing Belgium, French Alsace-Lorraine and the German Ruhr and Saar districts, there is a greater concentration of industry than anywhere in the world outside the United States.

Everything Russia could put together—even if it had all of Asia—would not match the industrial strength found in that triangle. And it takes the output of the entire United States to outdistance it.

From the selfish American viewpoint, nothing more need be said. Give that rich triangle to Russia and this country will no longer have the economic might to wage a winning war against communism. It's that simple.

We dare not allow this to happen if we wish to survive as a free nation. Obviously we have to defend European soil as if it were our own.

But we don't yet face so dire a prospect as that. Neither the British nor the French seem now to appreciate the urgency of the crisis. Certainly, too, they show little stomach for fighting another war. But we must still give them the full benefit of the doubt. We must assume that, having known freedom, they will still in the end be willing to fight for it again.

Western Europe is worth saving for its own sake as well as ours. Packed into that small half of a small continent live hundreds of millions of the most skilled, the most cultured, the most civilized people on earth. Most of them have lived long under liberty. In contrast, most Asiatics have no knowledge of freedom.

It would be a crushing blow not alone to freedom but to the whole fabric of western civilization, should Europe fall to Russian communism. There freedom was born, and there it may well die if we do not resolve to save it.

Questions and Answers

Q—Why did the Indians start fires in the forests?

A—Tradition says that they did so to drive out game, but we have no positive proof that they did this as a regular custom over any large areas. The Indians had no matches and they used small campfires that they tended carefully; so, it is improbable that they set many fires.

Q—What were the first metals used by early man?

A—Those that exist in uncombined form, such as gold, silver and copper.

New Tax Exemption Form Issued Here

ESCANABA property owners who apply for tax exemption this year under the statute providing for such exemptions in financial hardship cases will be required to fill out a more comprehensive application form than has been customary in years past. The city is demanding additional information from applicants to ascertain whether tax exemption is justified.

The financial hardship tax exemption provision of the state law is generally misunderstood, local assessors report. Many people believe that a widow is automatically entitled to exemption. Such is not the case. The law makes no reference at all to widows as such, but provides that tax exemption, wholly or partially, may be made in any financial hardship case. The majority of such exemptions, of course, do go to widows.

The city has found that some tax exemptions have been allowed in years past that were not justified. Whenever these cases are discovered, the exemption is stopped. The purpose of the new application form is to acquire more information about the financial condition of tax exemption applicants so that the assessor and the board of review may more accurately appraise the justification for exemption.

Applicants for exemption who for years have been filling out a comparatively meaningless form may resent this new "intrusion of their personal privacies" but the new policy is one that should be welcomed by taxpayers in general. Those who are financially able to meet their tax obligations should be required to do so. Tax exemptions under the financial hardship feature of the law should certainly be reserved only for those who truly can show financial hardship.

Non-Defense Items In Budget Must Be Cut To The Bone

CHAIRMAN CANNON of the House appropriations committee recently stated that "all non-defense items in the budget will be cut to the bone."

That represents an attitude which must be adopted by everyone in authority in the government if runaway inflation is to be retarded, much less prevented. It is an unfortunate fact that most of the top-level thinking on the problem of inflation has dealt with such dubious palliatives as iron-clad controls throughout the economy. Relatively little of it has dealt with the real causes of the disease—of which one of the most important is unnecessary federal spending.

A short time ago a program to curb inflation was proposed by 220 economists representing 27 of the nation's leading colleges and universities. Economists commonly disagree on many issues, but they see eye to eye on inflation. They called for elimination of all unnecessary government expenditures, for raising tax revenues faster than defense spending in order to create a cash surplus, and for more stringent credit restrictions. Their statement observed: "Fiscal and credit measures are the only adequate primary defense against inflation, and can minimize the extent of direct government controls over wages, prices, production and distribution. . . . A prolonged decline in the purchasing power of the dollar would undermine the very foundations of our society, and an ever-spreading system of direct controls could jeopardize our system of free enterprise and free collective bargaining."

This is a time for putting first things first. Let government really show leadership in combating inflation by throwing over board every proposed appropriation that does not directly serve a necessary, unavoidable purpose.

January Tenth

By Gordon Martin

There are many special dates upon the calendar each year, and a lot of them are holidays you always greet with cheer. Independence Day you welcome with its patriotic theme, and Thanksgiving is another which you hold in high esteem. But they ought to mark the calendar in letters large and black, on a most unwelcome day which takes your every bit of jack.

It's the tenth of January which is sure the Judgment Day, for it's then you've got a lot of urgent Christmas bills to pay. So you take the pile of statements and you start to write the checks, and it takes so much to pay them that you can't believe your specs. All those toys you got for Junior, plus the presents for your wife, and the clothes you bought for Sister—yep, you're busted flat for life.

Sure, you knew when you were shopping that you flew a little high, and until you got the bills you were an open-hearted guy. Now you've lost your Christmas spirit and you haven't got a cent, and the tenth of January is a day you'll long lament. So you think that on the calendar, in letters big and black, it should be a day of mourning for your dear departed Jack.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Only a handful know it, but the raging arguments between President Truman and Sen. Robert A. Taft could have been avoided.

A few weeks after his big election victory in Ohio in November, Taft sent word to the White House he would be glad to sit down with Mr. Truman and talk over the problems of defense with the view to reaching a closer cooperation between the administration and the GOP leadership.

Senator Taft's position, as expressed by such non-political members of the administration team as Undersecretary of Defense Robert Lovett, was that he had not made up his mind on foreign policy and wanted to hear all sides. In fact, friends of Taft said that he was so anxious to attain the stature of invalid Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, that he was willing to drop isolationism if he could be shown it was against our best interests.

This was reported to President Truman by Secretary of State Dean Acheson, also by Secretary of Defense George Marshall. They urgently felt the senator should be invited to the White House.

The White House staff, however, argued against it. Sensing some political trick, most of the presidential advisers felt that Truman should not open his doors to Taft unless the senator agreed, in advance, to support a bipartisan foreign policy.

President Truman, who has always had a sneaking admiration for Taft, listened to the arguments. At one moment he was inclined to throw protocol to the wind, call Taft to his office, take down his hair and say, "Bob, we're in a jam in the world. We need your help!" But he was talked out of it.

Finally, after some three weeks of bickering within the White House circle, a compromise was reached. Taft would be invited in, but only as one of a group of congressional leaders summoned to the White House for a formal conference.

Net result was that the rebuffed Taft angrily told the Republican conference he was opposed even to "consulting" with the administration. And, in his foreign policy speech last week, he accused the president of violating the constitution by sending troops to Korea.

KING OF THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT
Nevada's barrel-chested, silver-maned Sen. Pat McCarran is the worst tyrant in the Senate, and he doesn't care who knows it.

Even in the presence of a dumfounded visitor, McCarran telephoned Deputy Attorney General Peyton Ford and gave him a humiliating tongue-lashing.

"Hello, Ford. What about that young fellow I referred to you for a job?" demanded the Nevada.

Ford mumbled an explanation about the tight justice department budget.

"That's no excuse," snorted McCarran who, as chairman of the judiciary committee, has almost life-and-death power over the justice department. "If you have not got any money left to put him on, you certainly know where to come for a deficiency appropriation. Who controls your budget?"

Both McCarran and Ford knew the answer to that question. For McCarran is also chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that holds the justice department's purse strings.

Meekly, Ford promised an opening for McCarran's friend in another two months.

"Two months from now is too late," snapped McCarran, his silver hair bristling. Then he bluntly ordered: "Ford, put him on the first of the month."

Timidly, Ford agreed.

"That's better, Peyton," chortled McCarran. "Now let's make that a deal. Say 'Cross my heart.'"

"All right. . . Cross my heart," obediently recited the No. 2 man in the justice department.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

TO LOAN OR NOT TO LOAN

Norfolk: Our English class is divided over the use of the word loan as a verb, as, "I shall loan you the money." We'll accept your word for it.—E. M. H.

A. Time was when it was very incorrect to use loan as a verb. The then correct verb was lend, and the past tense was lent, as, I shall lend you the money; the bank lent me the money.

But popular usage finally prevailed. The correctness of the verb to loan is now recognized by practically all modern authorities; I shall loan you the money; the bank loaned me the money.

However, lend and lent are also correct, and many persons prefer them for the verbs, using loan as a noun only. The bank granted me a loan.

Q. I contend that the word take is incorrect in such sentences as "I hope you don't take sick." What about it?—U. H.

A. The word take may properly be used in a large number of meanings. But there are certain usages that are frowned on as illiterate or dialectal by the authorities. A few of the commonest abuses follow:

Avoid: "I hope you don't take sick."

Better say: I hope you don't become sick (or ill).

Avoid: "Leave me take your pencil."

There are two errors here.

Better say: "Let me borrow your pencil."

Wrong: "He took and bought a car."

Right: He bought a car.

Wrong: "She has taken down with a cold."

Right: She has taken cold. Or: She caught a cold.

Wrong: "I've taken my death of cold."

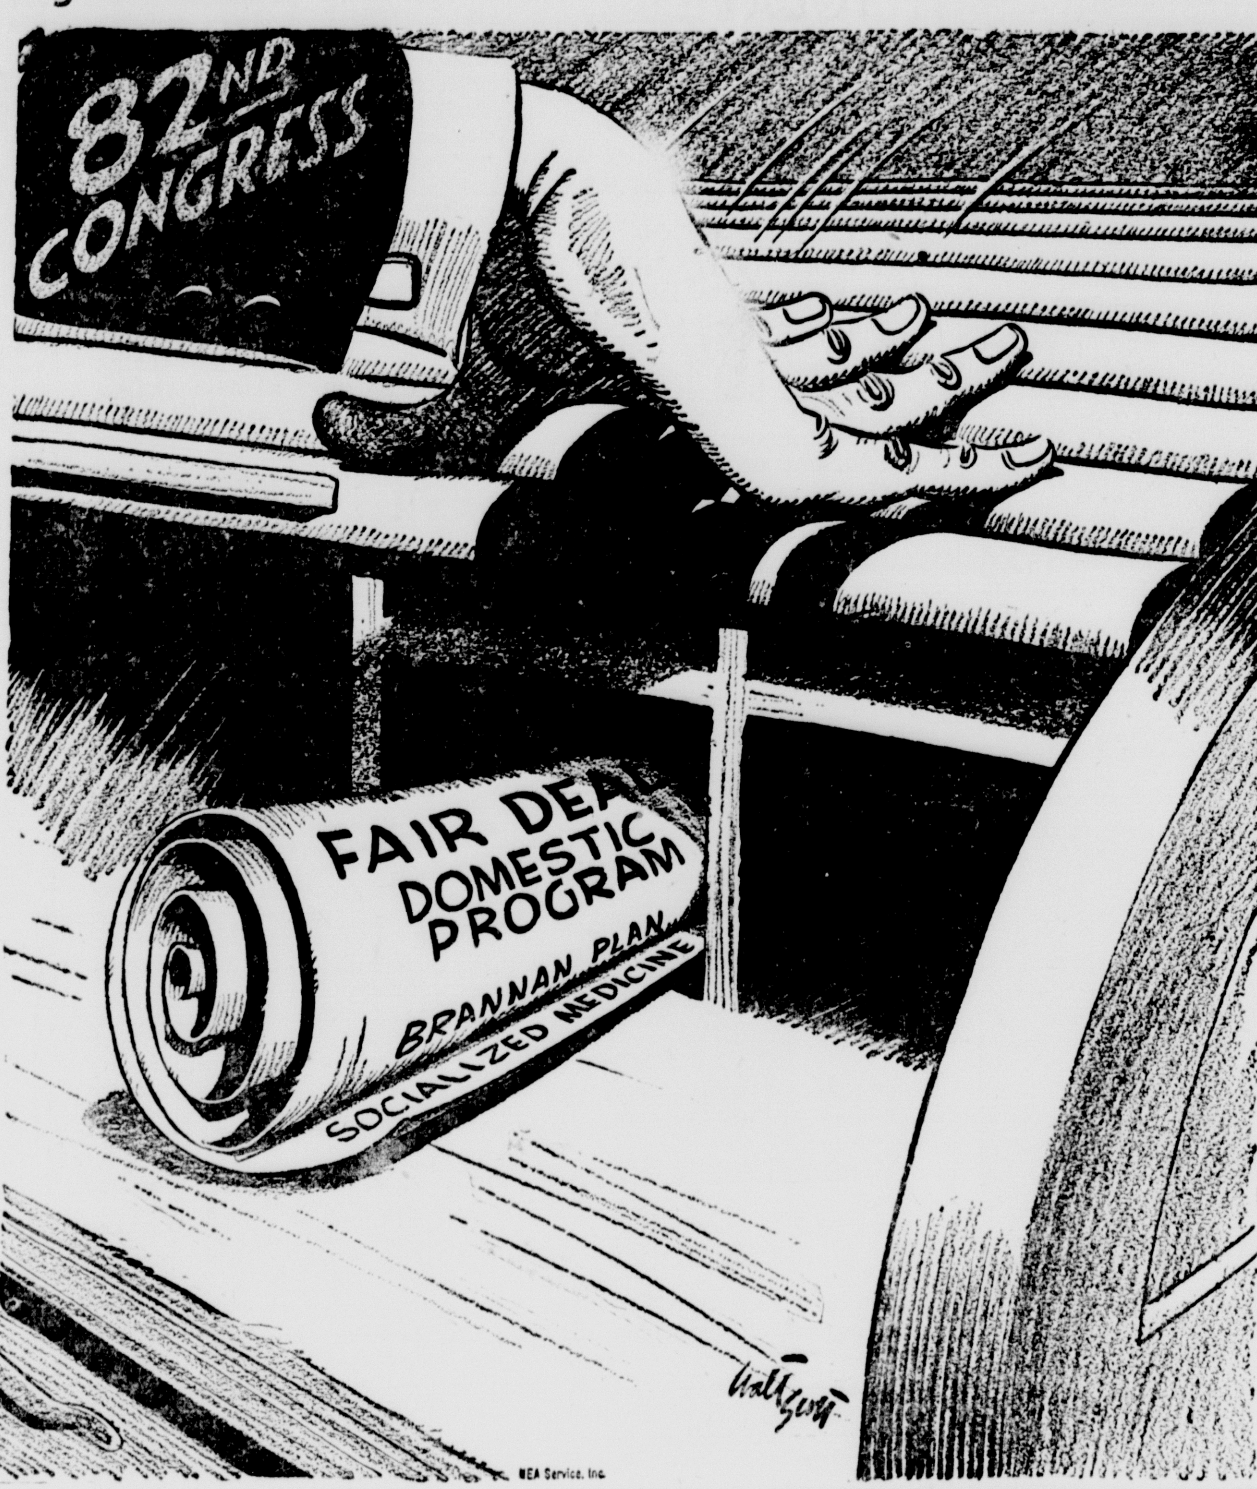

Right: I have a bad cold.

Wrong: "I'm glad to see that he takes to studying."

Right: I'm glad to see that he likes to study.

Note: Do not say "I, you, he, she, we, they taken." Taken, the past participle of take, should follow has, have, was, or were, thus: I, you, we, they have taken; it, he, she has taken; it was taken; they were taken.

Millions of Europeans Will Join West in War Against Soviet Union

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

Millions of Europeans are ready and willing to fight for the West should war with Russia come. They form a solid anti-Red front that stands as our prime defense hope on the Continent and far overseas the "neutrality" dreamers among European politicians and intellectuals.

Europe's experts on Russia believe that next to the American atomic bomb the Kremlin fears this anti-Communist front more than anything else it now faces.

The evidence I marshalled on my repeated swings through continental countries generally supports that conviction. It is a conviction that was voiced to me time and again by many men who are part of the huge anti-Red nucleus.

Who are the millions who comprise it?

To begin with, there are hundreds of thousands of refugees from behind the Iron Curtain. These are non-Communists, ex-Reds, even former Red Army men. In Stalin's hands their lives would be worthless. They would have no choice but to fight—and many of them are well-trained for it.

Not a few of the refugees are onetime inmates of Soviet slave labor camps. They know better than most what an unprecedented massacre of "counter-revolutionists" would take place if Russia swept westward over Europe.

These runaways from Soviet terror are the tough core of resistance to Red invasion. But vastly more important numerically are the 20,000,000 European members of the anti-Soviet International Confederation of Free Trade Unions. This potential army sprawls from Berlin to Istanbul.

The federation was formed in January, 1949. Though still young as such organizations go, it is already the only force in Europe that is able to counteract the sabotage efforts of Moscow's puppet World Federation of Trade Unions.

The ICFU has achieved notable results in its world-wide ideological struggle against Communism. Its members contribute both funds and front-line service to the endless battle for the hearts and minds of workers everywhere.

Cooperating with the International Transport Workers Union, the ICFU has succeeded in checking Cominform sabotage in all major Atlantic and Mediterranean ports.

Last September the pro-Red French dockers' union made a secret pact with a clandestine German organization designed to "prevent the loading and unloading of war materials in the ports of France and Western Germany."

The agreement called for creation of "action committees in every port and on every ship plying the Atlantic, Pacific and Mediterranean seas." It urged French and German dockers and seamen to keep close contact with Cominform agencies in Turkey, Greece, Italy, Yugoslavia, Belgium, Britain, the Scandinavian nations and the U.S.

Speaking in Warsaw on Sept. 18, 1950, Louis Sfallant, General Secretary of the WFTU, declared: "The most important task facing the WFTU today is to paralyze the transport of war materials in countries preparing a third World War."

Only the vigilance committees set up by the rival non-Red ICFU have thus far blocked this plan. These committees now function in North Africa, Southern ALLIES FOR THE WEST: Hundreds of thousands of refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, like this family fleeing across the East-West border in Germany, help make up a mighty anti-Red front in Europe that would resist any Russian invasion.

France, Italy, Israel, Greece and Malta.

Irving Brown, European representative of the American Federation of Labor, told me there is good reason to believe that where ICFU committees exist, the Cominform will not succeed.

Though Moscow has long been aware of the big anti-Red front, the western powers up to now have made little use of it. Yet spokesmen for its members believe powerful legions of trained fighters can and must be recruited from it. They could form an important part of the European defense army General Eisenhower must now create.

Should the West ever lose control of Europe, these same millions could do duty as saboteurs, guerrillas or perhaps as shock troops in a liberating army based in America—assuming a substantial number could escape in time.

The anti-Red front does not actually halt at the Iron Curtain. It maintains touch with scores of anti-Russian groups operating against almost insurmountable odds in all satellite countries and even inside the Soviet Union itself.

From the Baltic to the Black Sea, these forces await the call to revolt. In Poland, Czechoslovakia and the annexed Baltic states, there are underground military units. Elsewhere, especially in Hungary and Bulgaria, they engage in industrial sabotage, stage lightning wildcat strikes, and fight Russian MVD troops.

Korea, Indo-China, Malaya and Greece are the evidence that guer-

RECOLLECTIONS—What is the first incident of your childhood that left a deep and lasting impression?

L. C. Harrison, U. S. Forest Service supervisor at Escanaba, speaking to the Escanaba Rotary club on Monday, declared that his most vivid recollection was a flock of sheep. This may seem odd, yet Harrison was born on a Colorado cattle ranch—and a flock of sheep in that cattle grazing country spelled trouble for the cattlemen.

Somehow (and Harrison's father was not responsible for it) the flock of sheep accidentally stampeded over a cliff and were killed. It was the talk of the countryside.

THE ELECTRIC BROUGHAM—While we are on the subject of personal reminiscence, it may interest you to know that our earliest and most vivid recollection was the sight of an electric automobile.

In the little Ohio town where we spent our boyhood, there was one millionaire, a crusty old gentleman who lived in the biggest house in town. His wife made a trip to Cleveland and came back with ideas of grandeur. To satisfy her, Mr. Meeley bought an electric automobile, a brougham like a cracker box on wheels that steered with handle.

When Mrs. Meeley went out for an airing all the kids ran alongside of her on the brick-paved street, peering in at her magnificence. This was easy, since the brougham had a top speed of about four miles an hour.

Visibly flustered by this juvenile attention, Mrs. Meeley finally gave up and her husband sold the brougham, to the disappointment of every boy in town.

BOY MECHANICS—A more serious situation is recalled by Harry Belanger of Escanaba as a part of his boyhood in the vicinity of Felch, at that time a settlement that could be reached only on the C&NW railroad. Belanger told about it at a recent meeting of the Rotary club.

He and his brother, he said, had been taught by their father, a railroadman, to service the locomotives at the isolated watering stations. When the pump needed repairs, the two boys replaced worn gaskets or made other adjustments. There remained a lasting impression of the responsibility.

"I wonder if the Chicago & North Western would permit boys 10 and 12 years old to work on any of their equipment now," Belanger mused.

PLEASANT MEMORY—One of the older residents of this community, born at Sack Bay in Delta county about 84 years ago, is George Wiltzie. He has been in good health until recently.

A year or so ago he told me of one of his earliest impressions, a very pleasant memory indeed and typical of a boyhood spent largely in the woods and fields.

Back about 1875, when George was but a slip of a boy, he wandered north along the bay shore to Beaugartis Creek (now a roadside picnic table site south of Gladstone) and threw himself down on the creek bank. Looking into the water he could see a number of large trout.

"I picked some pin cherries and tossed them into the water, one by one," George told me. "The trout came up striking at them as if they were starved. I wished I had a fish hook and line."

HE DIDN'T FORGET—A youngster's visit to the doctor, especially in an earlier day, was likely to leave a deep impression. People didn't visit the doctors office as often as they do now.

Earl Theriault of Escanaba, salesman for the Bark River Culvert & Equipment company, has anything but a pleasant recollection of the time when (as a boy in his Menominee home town) he had his tonsils out. Taken to the hospital on a pretext of "just visiting" he was suddenly whisked off to the operating room.

Although he has since recovered from his aversion to doctors, he recalls that when he accompanied his mother to the hospital to pay the bill for his operation—he sat on the curb while she went inside!

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—Bobby McLean, former world champion speed skater who trained at Lake Placid, N. Y., under Peter C. Dube of Escanaba, will appear in a comedy and figure skating act with the "Ice Fantasia" show here Sunday. McLean lost to Oscar Mathieson in defense of his title at Stockholm in 1920, after winning from Mathieson in a series of races at Chicago and St. Paul.

Escanaba—Alta Marie Grodesky, former Escanaba high school drum major who has been visiting in Florida, performed with the Miami city band in the Orange Bowl parade in Miami New Year's day.

Manistique—John Velz has returned to New York, where he is on Coast Guard duty, following a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Velz.

Gladstone—Naomi Staple has returned to studies at Albion college in Albion following a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Staple.

20 YEARS AGO

Gladstone—Helen Ackley has been elected president of the Young Ladies' Sodality of All Saints church.

Berlin—Representatives of German sugar producers today came to terms with Thomas L. Chadbourne of the Cuban-American sugar delegation and accepted an export quota covering the next four years. The agreement makes possible an international limitation of production and export, removing the threat of chaos in the industry.

Escanaba—Charles Ford is spending the week in Sault Ste. Marie where he is serving on the federal grand jury.

Manistique—Edward Sheahan has left for Minneapolis to transact business for the Manistique Pulp and Paper company.

Debate Creates Doubts Abroad

Eisenhower Mission May Clear Situation

MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON—President Truman has chosen in his State of the Union message to ignore the Republican challenge to the president's powers. That challenge, as stated by Senator Robert A. Taft, denies the right of the president to send additional American troops to Europe without the consent of Congress.

The message is based on the assumption that the commitments have long since been made and that plans are proceeding according to schedule. The wisdom of this tactic is open to question however much one may approve the goal that General Eisenhower seeks in Europe. It will not end the debate. In fact, it may prolong it and that raises the all-important question of timing.

There can be no doubt that the issue raised by Taft, against the background of Herbert Hoover's speech attacking the whole concept of collaboration with Western Europe, has caused deep doubts abroad. Those doubts have been answered in part by the very fact of General Eisenhower's mission.

Great Partnership
His confidence and his resolution on his arrival in Paris will tend to offset the words of uncertainty and doubt that were so unfortunately timed on the eve of his departure. In his talk on the French and British radio, Eisenhower said: "We are committed to a great partnership and I, in all humility, am proud to serve in one phase of attaining the aspirations of our several peoples."

If there are doubts in Europe, there are also doubts in this country. The line of division on foreign policy has been sharply drawn by the Taft-Hoover declarations. The Hoover-Taft adherents will keep the issue alive, their best tactic being obviously to prolong the debate in the hope of winning more adherents as the doubts spread.

But such a delay will have a harmful effect on the efforts to prepare the defense of the west.

Here at home important decisions will be postponed from week to week and month to month as the argument continues and grows hotter. Abroad the unresolved dispute will spread the corrosion of distrust, with, one may be certain, the active assistance of Communist propaganda.

There is a time schedule that could, and should, bring an end to the debate at an early opportunity. General Eisenhower will return from Europe at the end of this month. He will report to the Congress on his findings. Surely, too, he will report to the people in a nation-wide broadcast.

Senate Test Vote
In the wake of that broadcast means should be found to have a test vote in the Senate on the right of the president to participate in the defense of Western Europe to the extent of sending further American divisions to be stationed there. I think that most Democrats would vote for cooperation and with them would be a fair number of Republicans. There can be little doubt about the outcome.

Senator Taft suggested in his television interview that General Eisenhower was not committed finally to lead a unified defense command by reason of the preliminary survey trip Eisenhower is now making in the capitals of the North Atlantic powers. Strictly speaking, that is true. General Eisenhower could return to report that he found such a lack of both confidence and intention as to make it impossible to build the defenses of Western Europe.

But anyone who knows Eisenhower may be sure that this is not what he will report. He is thoroughly aware, both as a soldier and a diplomat, of the integral role of Europe in our military and our economic life.

If Belgium should fall, as President Truman pointed out, America's chief source of uranium in the Belgian Congo would be seriously jeopardized, if not actually lost. A whole range of strategic materials must come from across the seas in a pattern of exchange that cannot be shattered without serious consequences to the security of this hemisphere. And underlying this economic pattern are the ties of religion, art, history and tradition that go deeper than most of us realize.

"Let us debate the issue," said the president in his message, "but let every man among us weigh his words and deeds. There is a sharp difference between harmful criticism and constructive criticism. If we are truly responsible as individuals, I am sure that we will be unified as a government."

Prague To Moscow Train Is Planned

PRAGUE—A new train called the "Muscovite" will be introduced next May on which passengers can ride between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union without changing coaches, the government-owned Czechoslovak Railways has announced.

It will run between Moscow and Carlsbad in summer. Passengers now must change from Soviet broad-gauge to Czechoslovak medium-gauge coaches at Cerna in eastern Slovakia. On the new train, the undercarriages of the coaches will be changed instead. The Moscow-Prague run takes about three and a quarter days.

cism and constructive criticism. If we are truly responsible as individuals, I am sure that we will be unified as a government."

It is hard to say how those words relate to the current controversy. Is the debate on the president's powers to continue indefinitely? Or, if it is to be resolved, how will this come about? The answer may be in the lead being given by the Eisenhower mission in Europe from day to day. The president's instinct is apparently to trust to the forging of ties that no amount of words spilled in Congress can possibly disrupt.

Saucy Snowflake Falls Into Important Work

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The tables have turned on that fluffy, often frivolous, little child of nature—the snowflake.

Long irresponsible and playful, both a delight and torment to man, the tiny winter visitor is being put to work at last, notes the National Geographic Society. In the mountains of the West, snow is now recognized as a "billion-dollar" crop, the difference between disaster and prosperity for millions of people.

There melting snows provide water for reservoirs and irrigation ditches in 11 western states. So necessary are they to the economy that even reluctant snowflakes are being enticed to earth by weather-making airplane pilots who shoot moisture-laden clouds with pellets of dry ice and other agents. This wooing may not always work, but the effort is being made.

Across the nation wherever ski enthusiasts gather in winter sports resorts, arrival of the snowflake means a successful season; non-arrival means financial loss. In western Canada an ambitious plan to open vast, dry, but potentially rich prairies for intensive cultivation hangs on a scheme to freeze a crust over snow fields in order to prevent evaporation of precious moisture.

Important as the snowflake has become to some phases of man's life, it took the 20th Century to raise the curtain on its unique appearance and personality. Wilson Bentley, a Vermont farmer who became famous as the "Snowflake Man," may almost be said to have "discovered" the individual snowflake, during his lifetime of snapping its picture with his camera.

He was the first to submit evidence in support of the theory that no two snowflakes appear exactly alike. Portraits by Bentley and others reveal, however, that in spite of an endless variety of patterns nature has held the snowflake to the six-sided or six-pointed figure.

Some flakes are of a "tailored" cut, roughly triangular in shape and simply decorated with a few lines; others are more elaborate with centers of dots and dashes ranging with pendants. Some look like exquisitely designed cuff links; still others resemble beautiful lace work. Highly regarded as perfect crystal architecture, snowflake designs are today being used in making jewelry, printing cloth and decorating buildings.

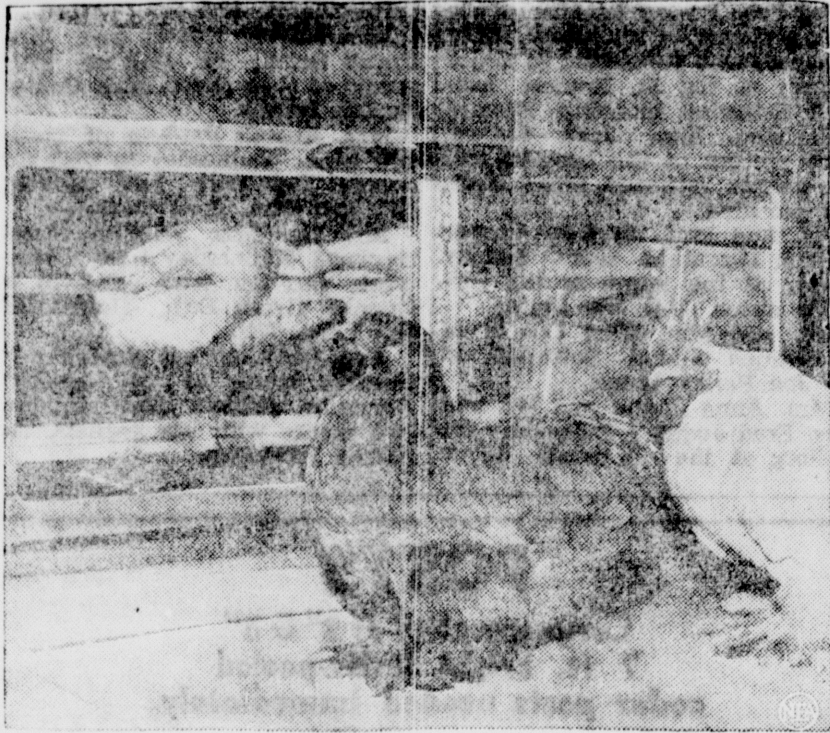

Snowball Snow

Not only are all snowflakes different but they arrive in communities that vary from one another as well. Powder snow—dry, cold, loosely packed and perfect for skiing—falls from lofty, cirrus clouds during or just before severely cold weather. Fluffy snow, with large, lacy, wet flakes often matted together, descends when the temperature is just below freezing-point.

Both types change with the weather into snows termed sticky, wet, breakable and granular. Wet snow, a soggy state reached after considerable melting, is what the small fry deem most desirable for snowballs; the sticky variety is considered best for making snowmen. Breakable and granular snows are partially melted, they frozen over—an ice-snow mixture.

All snowflakes carry minute electrical charges which increase when they are broken into many particles, as when hitting against the wings of a speeding airplane. Lowest charges are carried by powder snow; highest by fluffy flakes. Recent studies reveal these electrical charges are responsible for troublesome static on the radios of planes flying through snow storms.

Freezing Korean Winter Is Proving Ground For New Cold Weather Garb

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The bitterly cold mountains of North Korea will tell U. S. military experts whether or not they have licked one of the most chronic and dangerous weaknesses of the U. S. Army—the inability to operate effectively in frigid weather.

Russian troops are masters of cold weather and Arctic fighting. It's obvious that if war with the Red Army should ever come this advantage would be exploited to the fullest. It was the margin of Russian victory over Hitler's efficient war machine.

Realizing its seriousness, the U. S. Army has spent hundreds of millions of dollars on research and development since World War II to lick this advantage. It involved the elaborate staging of many cold weather maneuvers.

In the past the trouble has been both clothing and equipment plus the lack of planning necessary to get cold weather gear to the troops when they needed it. Pentagon spokesmen claim that the latter difficulty is already licked. There is enough warm clothing of the most modern type for all the troops in Korea who will need it, they insist. The only thing for the men over there to do is put it on and wear it properly.

Reports of some troops marching through snow storms in Korea wearing summer khaki uniforms are probably the results of mistakes by unit supply sergeants there. Pentagon officials claim. And even that problem is being licked.

The Quartermaster Corps has teams traveling all over the front now showing the men the proper way to handle and wear the cold weather clothing that is being issued to them. The best equipment in the world is no good if not used properly.

Most of the clothing being worn by the troops in Korea is supposed to be better than the men had during World War II. Pajama-type, baggy underwear is considered to be the most improved item. It's half cotton, half wool, fits very snug around ankles and wrists, and very loose around the legs.

The looseness is supposed to prevent perspiration by permitting ventilation. And it creates a layer of dead air which is good insulation. The layer theory, with air spaces between, is the basic design of all the clothing.

An improved shoe with a hard rubber sole, rubber uppers to about the ankle and leather above that, is another item the Quartermaster Corps is proud of. The leather upper permits ventilation. The rubber bottom keeps out water. The combination prevents trench-foot which results from damp and wet feet becoming very cold.

The Eisenhower jacket of World War II is not being used in Korea. Over their underwear the men wear a flannel shirt. Over that is a high-neck sweater, then a pile-liner, which in turn is covered by the standard field jacket. This combination, it is claimed, makes a man more able to adjust to varying temperatures. He can shed or add any layer he wants to.

The lower part of the body is covered with the underwear, and the wool serge trousers.

A special "trigger finger" mitten is supplied the men in combat. It consists of an outer leather shell and a wool insert. The man slips his index finger out of a special vent and inserts it in a special compartment of the glove which permits firing a gun. The men are instructed to keep all of their own fingers out of the fingers of the gloves when they aren't using their hands.

For extreme Arctic weather the men are given parkas. These include a hood edged with a special fur which will not accumulate ice from a man's breath. It has a pliable wire around the edge and can be fitted around the face to keep out wind. Special felt snow boots are issued with the parka. Over this uniform there is worn a white parka and pants. This does not contribute to warmth but is strictly for camouflage against the snow.

NURSE LOSES 29 LBS. RECOMMENDS RENNEL

"Have been using Rennel Concentrate as per instructions and have been very much satisfied with the results. I lost 29 pounds in seven weeks and never felt better," writes Doris Wild, 2210 Reed Road, Taylor Center, Mich. "Apart from the satisfaction of losing weight it seemed to give me pep, and I have been able to go about my work much better. I am a practical nurse and could not go on a strict reducing diet. I eat quite normally, just a little less on bread and potatoes. Several of my friends are using Rennel on my recommendation. Rennel is wonderful!"

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain 4 ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate at your druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two table-spoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple easy way to lose ugly fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves, just return it for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on Rennel.

Saucy Snowflake Falls Into Important Work

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The tables have turned on that fluffy, often frivolous, little child of nature—the snowflake.

Long irresponsible and playful, both a delight and torment to man, the tiny winter visitor is being put to work at last, notes the National Geographic Society. In the mountains of the West, snow is now recognized as a "billion-dollar" crop, the difference between disaster and prosperity for millions of people.

There melting snows provide water for reservoirs and irrigation ditches in 11 western states. So necessary are they to the economy that even reluctant snowflakes are being enticed to earth by weather-making airplane pilots who shoot moisture-laden clouds with pellets of dry ice and other agents. This wooing may not always work, but the effort is being made.

Across the nation wherever skid enthusiasts gather in winter sports resorts, arrival of the snowflake means a successful season; non-arrival means financial loss. In western Canada an ambitious plan to open vast, dry, but potentially rich prairies for intensive cultivation hangs on a scheme to freeze a crust over snow fields in order to prevent evaporation of precious moisture.

"Snowflake Man" Important as the snowflake has become to some phases of man's life, it took the 20th Century to raise the curtain on its unique appearance and personality. Wilson Bentley, a Vermont farmer who became famous as the "Snowflake Man," may almost be said to have "discovered" the individual snowflake, during his lifetime of snapping its picture with his camera.

He was the first to submit evidence in support of the theory that no two snowflakes appear exactly alike. Portraits by Bentley and others reveal, however, that in spite of an endless variety of patterns nature has held the snowflake to the six-sided or six-pointed figure.

Some flakes are of a "tailored" cut, roughly triangular in shape and simply decorated with a few lines; others are more elaborate with centers of dots and dashes ranging with pendants. Some look like exquisitely designed cuff links; still others resemble beautiful lace work. Highly regarded as perfect crystal architecture, snowflake designs are today being used in making jewelry, printing cloth and decorating buildings.

Snowball Snow Not only are all snowflakes different but they arrive in communities that vary from one another as well. Powder snow—dry, cold, loosely packed and perfect for skiing—falls from lofty, cirrus clouds during or just before severely cold weather. Fluffy snow, with large, lacy, wet flakes often matted together, descends when the temperature is just below freezing-point.

Both types change with the weather into snows termed sticky, wet, breakable and granular. Wet snow, a soggy state reached after considerable melting, is what the small fry deem most desirable for snowballs; the sticky variety is considered best for making snowmen. Breakable and granular snows are partially melted, then frozen over—an ice-snow mixture.

All snowflakes carry minute electrical charges which increase when they are broken into many particles, as when hitting against the wings of a speeding airplane. Lowest charges are carried by powder snow; highest by fluffy flakes. Recent studies reveal these electrical charges are responsible for troublesome static on the radios of planes flying through snow storms.

Jamaica is the largest island in the British West Indies. It is 144 miles long and 50 miles across at the widest point.

FOWL TURN — Being chicken-hearted, these fine-feathered friends naturally wonder what's cookin' as they observe a pair of their less fortunate brethren being done to a golden brown on a spit in the Greater New York Poultry Exposition.

Freezing Korean Winter Is Proving Ground For New Cold Weather Garb

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The bitterly cold mountains of North Korea will tell U. S. military experts whether or not they have licked one of the most chronic and dangerous weaknesses of the U. S. Army—the inability to operate effectively in frigid weather.

Russian troops are masters of cold weather and Arctic fighting. It's obvious that if war with the Red Army should ever come this advantage would be exploited to the fullest. It was the margin of Russian victory over Hitler's efficient war machine.

Realizing its seriousness, the U. S. Army has spent hundreds of millions of dollars on research and development since World War II to lick this advantage. It involved the elaborate staging of many cold weather maneuvers.

In the past the trouble has been both clothing and equipment plus the lack of planning necessary to get cold weather gear to the troops when they first needed it. Pentagon spokesmen claim that the latter difficulty is already licked. There is enough warm clothing of the most modern type for all the troops in Korea who will need it, they insist. The only thing for the men over there to do is put it on and wear it properly.

Reports of some troops marching through snow storms in Korea wearing summer khaki uniforms are probably the results of mistakes by unit supply sergeants there. Pentagon officials claim. And even that problem is being licked.

The Quartermaster Corps has teams traveling all over the front now showing the men the proper way to handle and wear the cold weather clothing that is being issued to them. The best equipment in the world is no good if not used properly.

Most of the clothing being worn by the troops in Korea is supposed to be better than the men had during World War II. Pajama-type, baggy underwear is considered to be the most improved item. It's half cotton, half wool, fits very snug around ankles and wrists, and very loose around the legs.

The looseness is supposed to prevent perspiration by permitting ventilation. And it creates a layer of dead air which is good insulation. The layer theory, with air spaces between, is the basic design of all the clothing.

An improved shoe pack with a hard rubber sole, rubber uppers to about the ankle and leather above that, is another item the Quartermaster Corps is proud of. The leather upper permits ventilation. The rubber bottom keeps out water. The combination prevents trench-foot which results from damp and wet feet becoming very cold.

The Eisenhower jacket of World War II is not being used in Korea. Over their underwear the men wear a flannel shirt. Over that is a high-neck sweater, then a pile-liner, which in turn is covered by the standard field jacket. This combination, it is claimed, makes a man more able to adjust to varying temperatures. He can shed or add any layer he wants to.

The lower part of the body is covered with the underwear, and the wool serge trousers. A special "trigger finger" mitten is supplied the men in combat. It consists of an outer leather shell and a wool insert. The man slips his index finger out of a special vent and inserts it in a special compartment of the glove which permits firing a gun. The men are instructed to keep all of their own fingers out of the fingers of the gloves when they aren't using their hands.

It has a pliable wire around the edge and can be fitted around the face to keep out wind. Special felt snow boots are issued with the parka. Over this uniform there is worn a white parka and pants. This does not contribute to warmth but is strictly for camouflage against the snow.

Bill Threatens GI Insurance

10 Million Veterans May Lose Rights

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—An estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans are in danger of losing their GI insurance rights.

This threat is contained in a bill which was passed by the House during the final special session of the 81st Congress. Although it didn't pass the Senate, it is all set for reintroduction and quick passage by the new 82nd Congress.

The bill also marks a sharp cut-back from the World War II standard in the amount of benefits to be given many Korean vets and all future veterans.

It would give a free $10,000 policy to every man in service. And it would permit every veteran who had been made uninsurable by his service to buy a non-participating GI policy for the future.

But it would not permit the vast majority of veterans to hang onto their government insurance after they get out of service. Veterans organizations consider GI insurance, after service, to be one of the most valuable benefits which Uncle Sam has provided. This benefit has also been used as a prime recruiting argument by the services.

The most serious impact of the bill, however, would be on the estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans whose GI policies have expired, but who have the right under present law to get new GI policies in the future. The bill which passed the House before Christmas eliminates that right by prohibiting the issuance of any more National Service Life Insurance policies.

It is the opinion of most insurance experts of the veterans organizations that the great majority of GIs who dropped their policies when they got out of service did so with the express plan of getting new GI policies some time in the future when they might get married or could better afford it.

Also in doubt in the House-passed bill is the future of the policies which have been kept in force but which haven't been converted to a permanent plan. There is some opinion that the bill would also eliminate that choice by GI policy holders.

Main supporters of the bill are the Bureau of the Budget and groups of private insurance company executives. It is the theory of Budget officials that giving the men policies, without charging premiums, would eliminate much of the costly administrative problems which were involved in NSLI. And it would help take the government out of the insurance business inasmuch as the men would lose their policies as soon as they were discharged.

In answer to this, an American Legion spokesman points out that a record would have to be kept of the date every man left service. There would be costly litigation for the men who claimed that they were rendered uninsurable by service. There would have to be machinery to pay beneficiaries the $10,000 which would be spread over 10 years.

And further, opponents of the new bill point out, the so-called free insurance isn't insurance at all. It's simply a death gratuity and does not provide the same protections and benefits of true life insurance.

It has always been the opinion of many private insurance executives that GI insurance has been an unwise thing. They think Uncle Sam should not be in the insurance business at all.

Under the new bill, these executives would win an important point. While the men are in service they would have free protection. But as soon as they got out they would have to buy insurance from a private company if they wanted it.

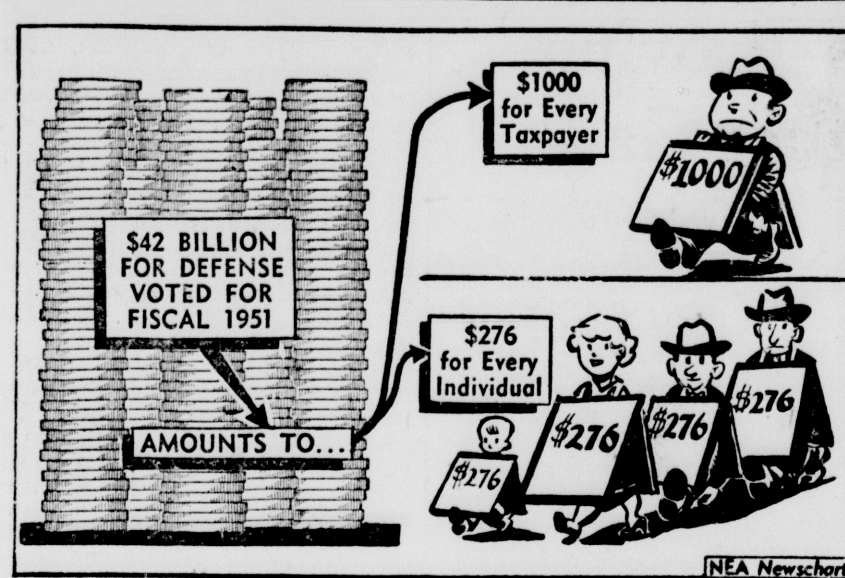

The insurance experts of the veterans organizations hope some compromise will be worked out. They are for the free insurance while the men are in service, which would also be given the survivors of the Korean dead. And they might go along with having insurance end with a man's discharge. But they hope that the 10,000,000 veterans who have been

Donations Pay Fines Of Newsmen

MANILA—(P)—Public donations have paid the fines of two newsmen convicted on a charge of printing obscene language. Columnist Pedro Padilla and Editor Vicente F. del Fierro of a small Manila daily were fined $150 each for quoting from John Steinbeck's book, "To A God Unknown," which a court held to be obscene. The fines were upheld by an appellate court. To start the fund a Philippines senator contributed $25, and soon more than enough to pay the fines and court costs had been collected. The remainder, sponsors of the campaign, decided, would be used to establish a permanent fund for newspapermen who may be similarly convicted.

Popular 'Ham' Hobbyists Aid In Communications

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The amateur radio operator, who glories in the inelegant title of "ham," is basking in well-earned popularity while various national organizations court him with unmistakable warmth and fervor.

The U. S. is relying upon privately-owned short wave radio stations as vital means of emergency communication in the event of disaster, notes the National Geographic Society. Army, Air Force, Civil Air Patrol, and units of the Red Cross and Civilian Defense all are energetically enlisting ham hobbyists in communication networks.

There are currently about 85,000 licensed amateur radio operators in the U. S., ranging from business executives to truck drivers, from bobby-soxers to octogenarians. Their common bond is enjoyment in chatting with fellow hams all over the world—yes, even in Russia.

Countless times these globe-trotting conversationalists have demonstrated that they are an ever-present help in time of trouble. Disasters such as the 1938 New England hurricane and the explosions at Texas City in 1947, and at South Amboy, N. J., last May, have found volunteer hams on the job to broadcast urgent messages and appeals for help.

Long Range Triple Play
Cooperation on the international level has been equally evident. Recently two men who had been mauled by a leopard in Kenya, East Africa, short waved the ham equivalent of an "S. O. S." The message was picked up by an amateur in Bordeaux, France, who relayed it to an airwave pal in Fairhaven, Mass., who in turn summoned a rescue plane from Rhodesia. This triple play around half the globe brought help in the nick of time.

In the U. S. hams are licensed by the Federal Communications Commission, which requires them to pass a stiff examination. Applicants must be able to send and receive thirteen words a minute in international code and must demonstrate knowledge of electronics and international radio treaties and regulations. Licensees include about 2,000 women; one member of the fair sex was able to pass the exam at the tender age of eight.

The Army and Air Force jointly operate the Military Amateur Radio System—MARS for short—with some 3,000 member stations. Headquarters is in the Pentagon near Washington. Military officials regard MARS as a reservoir of highly able radio specialists, most of them self-trained, who would be an invaluable source of technicians for the armed services in the event of all-out war.

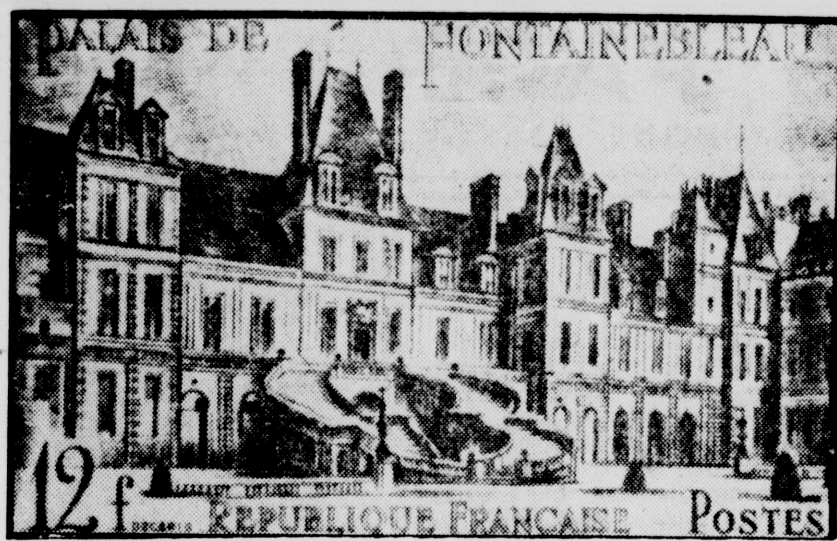

About 25,000 hams were in uniform in World War II and made outstanding contributions as radio and radar specialists. During the war most of the hams at home were off the air by order of the government, which took over the short wave bands. In the months immediately following Pearl Harbor the armed forces were caught with a shortage of radio equipment, and many amateurs came to the rescue by selling their equipment to the government.

Mail Greetings Sent
In ham parlance a "QSL" is a postcard exchanged with fellow amateurs to confirm a station contact. Curiously, Russians in the past almost invariably have sent reply cards to Americans. But the message always is noncommittal, giving only technical information, and in radio conversations Russian remarks are guarded. Some hams report that recent Soviet postcards have a propaganda touch, bearing the picture of a bewhiskered gentleman identified as "the inventor of radio."

Cards to Russian hams must be mailed to "Box 88, Moscow, U. S. S. R.," where presumably the Soviet government screens the replies.

How did that proud title of "ham" originate? One theory is that it can be traced to the cockney dialect of London's East End, where amateur is likely to become "hamateur."

Chairs are very ancient, but until the 16th Century they were used as emblems of official splendor rather than for common utility.

ATTENTION, PHILATELISTS — This is a new 12-franc postage stamp being issued by French postal authorities this month. The dark brown stamp shows a front view of the famous Fontainebleau Palace, former residence of French kings, now the summer home for presidents of France.

Meet The American Girl Of 1951

Here's How She'll Look...

Here's What She'll Wear...

By VIVIAN BROWN
All rumors to the contrary, the 1951 woman will be sleek and slender—although she'll have a "full-blown bust" according to beauty specialists.
The panel of experts including beautician Elizabeth Arden, model agent John Robert Powers, glamor success school head mistress Ann Delafield, calendar artist Gil Elvgren, veteran brassiere manufacturer Ida Rosenthal, and George Hurrell, a photographer whose specialty is beautiful women, were queried to determine just what tomorrow's American beauty will look like. They were all in agreement on one thing—their crystal balls do not show curved hips in the near future, although the bust will be bigger.
Elizabeth Arden sees in the longer hair trend a return to femininity. She has clamored for this since short hair made its debut. Says she:
"Everyone is sick of women looking like men with short and shingled hair. Sometimes it is difficult to tell the sexes apart, unless you look head-on. Most women will wear chignons until their short hair grows back to the length they admire. Tiny waists, large busts, less tummy and less weight will be the 1951 silhouette."
John Powers thinks the "new look" will be the "you look." Says he:
"Tomorrow's girl will get away from being a rubber stamp. She'll make the most of what nature bestowed on her. She'll wear her hair to frame her face, be neither plump nor slender, but will emphasize the weight and proportion which is most becoming to her."
Ann Delafield foresees the shingle hairdo gone forever, although she predicts that the bun "which makes women look older will not replace it." She adds:
"We'll see tiny waists and kitten hips for 1951. I predict a 38 bustline for girls more than 5 feet 6 inches tall and a 36 inch bustline for their shorter sisters."

The tip of the bust must measure half way between shoulders and waist for a full-shouldered line.
Calendar artist Gillette Elvgren, whose girls combine the features best liked by home owners, business, organizations and others who hang approximately 100,000,000 calendars on walls across the United States says:
"My 1951 calendar girls are small of hands, feet and waist. Specific measurements do not mean a thing to me but a top calendar girl must give an overall effect of trimness and refinement."

B. & P. W. Club Hears Book Review By Mrs. Holderman

Mrs. Herbert L. Holderman reviewed the book, "A Lamp Is Heavy," by Sheila MacKay Russell at last night's dinner meeting of the Escanaba Business and Professional Woman's club at the Sherman hotel.
The book tells the story of experiences of a student nurse during her years of training. Its title came from the name, "the lady with the lamp" given Florence Nightingale by the grateful soldiers who received her care.
Mrs. Holderman quoted the author as commenting that "if the flashlight of the modern nurse is less romantic it is more steady and practical."
As the present crisis is emphasizing the importance of the nursing profession the book is most timely and Mrs. Holderman's report was exceptionally interesting.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Hannah Anderson who arranged the program.

HERE'S COP '52 CANDIDATE—The gent pictured above was created by taking photographs of the five men most prominently mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination in 1952 and superimposing them to make this single composite. The men were Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York; Sen.-elect James H. Duff of Pennsylvania; Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The result seems to be the portrait of a solid, substantial citizen who might well be the embodiment of Republican conservatism.

Tax Deadline Is Extended Month

Request For Wage Increase Tabled

Gladstone property owners have an extra month in which to pay their current taxes without penalty. Extension of the deadline was made by the city commission in regular session Monday evening.

After Feb. 15 all unpaid taxes will be subject to a four per cent penalty as provided by Michigan law.

A request for a 15 per cent salary and wage increase, made by a petition signed by most of the city employees, was tabled until the next meeting inasmuch as only part of the commissioners were in attendance at the meeting.

Purchase of another $1,000 government bond to be placed in the Fernwood cemetery perpetual care fund was approved by the commission.

City Reviews Housing Plan

Council Takes No Action On Matter

A further survey of housing needs in Manistique will be made before the city council makes a final decision on inaugurating a public housing program here, it was decided at a regular council meeting Monday night.

Held in abeyance until such a survey is made is council action on a resolution passed several weeks ago by the Manistique housing commission. This resolution requested the Federal Housing Administration to reserve approximately 40 units for Manistique and petitioned for an advance on a $16,000 initial federal allocation.

Swartzel Present

Appearing before the city board to further explain the public housing program was A. Dean Swartzel, field economist from the Detroit office of the federal housing organization. Three members of the local housing board also attended and met later with the field economist.

Council members also discussed a wage increase requested by city employees, but deferred final decision until the next regular meeting on January 22.

The matter of granting another taxicab license in the city was discussed but no decision was reached. It was agreed, however, that an old 1915 taxicab ordinance should be revamped, and the city attorney was instructed to make a study of it.

Indian Lake Study

A copy of a study on Indian Lake and its importance in the Manistique economic picture was presented by W. S. Crowe. The written report will be studied later by council members who plan to take the matter up with the county board of supervisors at their annual session on January 22.

Also deferred was action on city purchase of advertising space in the 1951 Lure book. It was proposed that the city invest $150 in such space, which would include a picture of the concrete siphon bridge across Manistique river.

The council concluded its session with a lengthy discussion of the municipal water problem and the eventual need of replacing the gravity main from intake park to the pumping station.

Connected Barns At McGahan Farm Burn

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday morning completely destroyed three connected barns and their contents at the Mazie McGahan farm in Cooks, causing a loss estimated by the owner at $20,000.

Destroyed with the buildings were over 100 tons of hay, 1000 bushels of potatoes, 300 bushels of rutabagas, about 40 tons of straw, a milking machine, a new hay baler and miscellaneous ropes, pulleys and other small farm equipment.

Insurance coverage on the building and contents amounted to only $4,000.

The county fire truck, driven by Ray Mc Carney, was summoned at 4:50 a. m., but was unable to approach the barn due to snow. A county plow, called at the same time, was late in arriving because the county road commission night crew had left work and the early morning shift had not yet arrived.

Basil Dehut, asleep at home, was awakened and drove the county plow to the McGahan farm, arriving too late, however, to clear a path from the road to the barn for the fire truck.

McGahan discovered the fire a few minutes before he called the Manistique fire department. Smoke from the burning barn buildings, seeping into his home, awakened him.

The McGahan farm is located on a county road one mile south and a half mile west of the Cooks school. The three connected barn buildings, each about 36 by 60 feet in size, were situated about 350 from the road and 300 feet from the McGahan House.

Other farm machinery was stored in a tool house. All livestock had recently been sold, it was reported.

McGahan reported yesterday afternoon that he plans to rebuild.

Eskymos Win First Game; Beat Steves In Thriller

The Escanaba Eskymos scored their first basketball victory of the season last night, defeating Stephenson 49-48, in a thrilling battle at the junior high school gymnasium. The victory was nailed down in the last few seconds of the game when "Doc" Shomin sank the first of two free throws to break a 48-48 tie.

Shomin saw all the way with the lead changing hands many times. With a minute and five seconds of play remaining, the Eskymos were out in front, 48-43, and apparently were safe. Then the roof nearly caved in on Coach State Baltie's boys.

Roger Lundquist scored a free throw on Jojo Johnson's fifth foul and followed with a dog shot for Stephenson to make the score 48-46. Ray Blom intercepted Paul Gunderman's pass from out of bounds under the Stephenson basket and laid in the equalizing field goal.

The Eskymos led most of the first quarter but the Eagles tied the score at 10-up just before the period ended. Stephenson held a 23-20 lead at half time, but at the start of the third period Johnson scored two quick goals for the Eskymos to put the Escanabans back in front.

The lead changed several times in this frame and when Paul Baldwin fouled out midway in the third period, Lundquist scored a free throw to tie the score at 31-31. The Eskymos moved in front again before the period ended, 36-33.

Escanaba stretched its lead to six points in the fourth period and still held a five point advantage when Johnson fouled out with a minute and five seconds of play remaining. Then came the thrilling climax.

Smith Gets 14
The Eskymos outscored Stephenson on field goals, 29 to 17, but the Eagles remained in contention by hitting a high percentage of their free throws. Stephenson scored 14 points on 17 Escanaba fouls. Escanaba counted only nine points on 17 Stephenson fouls.

Mike Michnick of Stephenson was high point scorer with 17 points, scored on seven goals and three free throws. Smith led the Eskymo scoring with 14 points on five goals and four free throws. The Escanaba Reserves easily defeated Stephenson Reserves in the preliminary, 45-21.

All Star Cage Card Set For Thursday

The Escanaba basketball association is "shooting the works" at the junior high school tomorrow night.

Putting all its eggs in one basket in an attempt to dish up a basketball card that will tickle the palate of cage fans, the association has lined up a three-star thriller.

Top billing goes to the 8:30 windup between the Kesslers, leaders of the American (fast) league, and the rejuvenated Shamrocks, runners-up. Kesslers have won four and lost none in league competition and the only Shamrock defeat in four games has been at the hands of Kesslers.

The game was to have been played earlier but Kesslers agreed to delay it until the Shamrocks could get to full strength. Now Kesslers feel Shamrocks have stepped out of bounds by taking on Bob Dufour, home for a few days from the air corps, and Tom St. Germain, St. Joseph coach who said earlier he would not play this year.

In the 7:30 affair, Andys will meet Cloverland college in the Bark River team's first rally into the fast league. Andys were so strong in the slower National League that they agreed to move into faster company. They lost Don Nelson and Lawrence Malnor to the air corps but it is reported they have replaced them.

The 6:30 opener will be between Groos Drugs and Claimants for leadership of the National league. They now are tied.

Caldwell Happy But Will See Duke, USC

DALLAS—(P)—Four schools may be removed from the National Collegiate Athletic Association black list today. The way also has been opened.

DALLAS—(P)—Charley Caldwell, coach of Princeton, said today he would talk with Duke and Southern California officials regarding open coaching jobs at the two schools but that "I am mighty happy where I am."

Caldwell's contract at Princeton expires this year.

Local Boxers Start Golden Gloves Drills

A dozen boxers reported for training this week in preparation for the Golden Gloves boxing tournament here Feb. 9-10. More boxers are expected tonight and tomorrow night at the training center at the North Escanaba fire station. The training sessions are from 7 to 9 p. m., with Dick Meissner in charge.

At least 40 boxers will compete in the tournament. Besides Delta county boxers, entries have been assured from Marinette, Manistique, Munising, Caspian and Sault Ste. Marie.

Boxers training at the North Escanaba fire station are advised to bring their own gym apparel, particularly soft-soled shoes and gym trunks. All other equipment is available at the center, including light and heavy punching bags, weights, exercisers, medicine ball, boxing gloves, training mirror, etc.

Gladstone Plays Three Games In Next Five Days

GLADSTONE—The Gladstone Braves will return to the basketball war this weekend, following a holiday layoff, and they'll do it in grand style for they are scheduled to play three games in five days.

They start it Friday evening when Stephenson comes to Gladstone. The following night the Braves travel to Escanaba for a return game with the St. Joseph Trojans. Tuesday evening, Munising comes to Gladstone for a return game. The Braves then get a ten-day period in which to prepare for their invasion of Ishpeming and their clash with the Class B state champs.

The Braves should continue their winning streak against the Steves but they'll have their work cut out for them against the well-balanced St. Joe crew which welcomed them here in the second game of the season. The Braves also should take another from Munising for they had little trouble with the Alger county five in a pre-Christmas game.

Coach Eldon Keil is expected to use Capt. Phil Cretan at center, Joe Sutter and Jim LaLonde, guards, and Sophomores Tom Moreau and Lowell LaPlante at forwards, as his starting lineup.

In reserve will be Dallas Knecht, John Syverson, Roger Beauchamp, Martin Becker, Jr., and Wayne Marmilick.

PERKINS — Despite 18 points dumped in by Ken Depuydt before he left the game on fouls, Perkins high school cagers lost another heart-breaking game last night, losing to Hermansville, 52 to 48.

The game was nip and tuck all the way with all five Hermansville regulars scoring from six to 16 points. High scorer for the winners was Melvin Poquette.

Perkins graders won the preliminary in an overtime, 23-20. Perkins entertains Trenary Saturday night.

U. P. Hockey's Babe Ruth Meets Hawks Here Tonight

Veteran Stars In Bruins Win

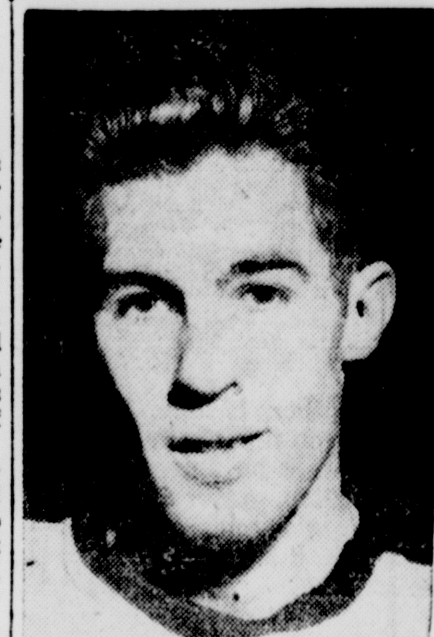

(By The Associated Press)
Milton Conrad Schmidt is crowding 33 years but you'd never believe it the way he's performing this season with what some National hockey league observers describe as a so-so club.

The play-making center from Kitchener, Ont., demonstrated again last night he's one reason the Boston Bruins are serious contenders for an NHL playoff berth.

He scored two goals—one the winner—as the Bruins defeated the lack Hawks, 5-4, in Chicago. The victory pushed Boston past New York into third place alone, one point ahead of the idle Rangers.

Schmidt, recognized as one of hockey's greatest playmakers, broke a 4-4 deadlock with less than five minutes to go as the floundering Hawks winless streak rose to 11 games.

GETS SPORT TROPHY
PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Robert W. Maxwell Memorial football club award to 1950's outstanding collegiate football player was presented last night to Francis (Reds) Bagnell, University of Pennsylvania captain and record-setting halfback.

CANADIAN ACE—Walter Bechtold, 21-year-old native of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada, has added plenty of punch to the Escanaba Hawks' offensive thrusts as well as doing a dependable job on defense. Light for a defenseman, Bechtold makes up for lack of weight by his fast skating, drive and clever stick handling. He'll play against the Portage Lake Pioneers at the fairgrounds rink tonight. (Escanaba Press Photo)

The "Babe Ruth of Upper Peninsula hockey"—that would be the inimitable Tony Buckovich of Portage Lake—and his crew of hard-skating, hard-fighting Pioneers are in town.

They put their record of eight wins in a row without defeat on the line at 8:15 tonight at the indoor ice rink at the fairgrounds against the surprising Escanaba Hawks.

The last time the unbeaten Portage Lakers came to town, they were mighty glad to leave with a one-goal victory. Since that time, the Hawks have improved tremendously and hold second place in Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league standings.

Out For Revenge
The Hawks and Portage met at Houghton Sunday and in a high-scoring game, Escanaba lost, 10-5. The defeat will give the locals added incentive to win tonight.

Escanaba will have Ben Artwisch in the net as usual tonight with front lines comprising Guy Pooe, Leighton Haugen, Bob Porter, Ted and Marc Olson. Russ Hiltunen and Bud Provo and defenseman Walter Bechtold, Gordon Haga, Harold Sampson, Jim Ward, Julius Artwisch and Lolly Rose.

Portage will start with Larry Anderson in the goal, Mike Buckovich and Fran Lowney on defense and Tony and Joe Buckovich and Bill Lindstrom on the front line. In reserve they will have Bernie and Jackie Ruelle, Joe Ricci, Clem Stone, Rudy Gemiani and Paul Vitton.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

It takes a Chicago drama critic to tell off the sportswriters ... and he does a good job of it.

Emmet Dedmon rips the sportswriters for voting Notre Dame's 1950 football team as the "flop of the year" in sports.

Says Dedmon: "Notre Dame was the flop of the year only because those sportswriters want to cover up their own very wrong estimates."

He makes good logic, too. He says early in the year the sports know-it-alls decided that Notre Dame was going to be the best team in the nation.

So when Notre Dame plays up to its form—for this year instead of the last four or five—it makes the sportswriters look bad. So they go out and vote the Irish as the "flop of the year."

"To me and everyone but the sportswriters, this made the experts the 'flop flop of 1950' because they were so wrong in their predictions," said Dedmon.

Bravo, there Dedmon! You've got something.

The Associated Press has become so poll crazy of late that hardly a story passes sports desk that isn't cluttered up with what the AP poll think of anything.

As we pointed out before, the sportswriters at one stage of the game last fall rated Michigan (ask California about the Wolverines) even with little Gustavus Adolphus college (enrollment 1,200 students).

Along with de-emphasis of college and high school athletics, let's deflate the sportswriters—starting right from here!

Racehorse Vs. Control Basketball At Stake

NEW YORK — (P) — Nat Holman added his voice to basketball's "should-we-freeze-out-the-freeters" controversy today by warning that slowdown teams may become subject to schedule boycotts.

"I don't know how feasible it would be to try to legislate against this uninteresting style of basketball," the coach said. "I do know you can't sell that kind of show to the public."

"We must remember we are in the entertainment business as well as sports and that we have a definite responsibility to the fans."

"I feel that teams which insist on playing possession basketball may find it difficult to get a schedule. The big teams in cities may find them unprofitable."

Holman's 1950 tournament sensations have had their troubles this year with hold-the-ball adversaries, dropping decisions to Missouri, Oklahoma and Arizona, all slowdown teams, and to St.

John's, which used the possession style to a degree.

The University of Texas' Jack Gray, a member of the rules committee, predicted earlier this week that a rule may be made soon to limit the time a team may control the ball without taking a shot at the basket.

Gray criticized Hank Iba's Oklahoma A. and M. team for its ball-control tactics and called the recent all-college tournament at Oklahoma City, won by the Aggies, "the dullest you ever saw."

He said this kind of basketball could "kill the game."

Iba was quick to defend his famous possession methods.

"When you compete against tall teams," he said, "the only way you can beat them is ball control."

Albion Sets Record; Beats Olivet, 98-43

ALBION — (P) — Albion college piled up 98 points against Olivet last night in setting a scoring record for the Albion varsity. Olivet had 43 points.

Dominating the play all the way, Albion led 51-16 at halftime. Olivet forward, Tom Saratore, took individual scoring honors for the game with 14 points.

Debaters Go To Marquette

Six Named From Senior High

Six Escanaba high school students will go to Marquette Friday to compete in the annual Upper Peninsula debate championship being held Friday and Saturday at Northern Michigan college.

Cochman, Rostad named the starters as Don Rose, Mary Lou Fleming, Mary Shepeck and Lynn Bergman. Alternates are Charles Wickman and Patricia Heminger.

On Friday Escanaba will have two affirmative contests and two negatives on the subject of whether the United States should reject the "welfare state." Opponents are not announced until Friday but they will not be schools against which Escanaba already has competed.

Other schools in the contest are Ironwood, Bessemer, Baraga, Felch, Iron Mountain, Crystal Falls, Kingsford, Norway, Menominee, Manistique, Sault Ste. Marie, Newberry and Ishpeming.

If Escanaba finishes among the top schools on the basis of Friday's debates, it will be eligible for Saturday's semi-final events. Finals will be held immediately after the semi-finals.

Last year Escanaba was defeated in the U. P. semi-finals by Kingsford. Manistique was U. P. champion.

Gov. Williams Drops Commission Feuder

LANSING — (AP)—John F. Cassin of Port Huron, who feuded with Governor Williams' chairman of the State Unemployment Compensation commission was dropped from the commission today.

Williams appointed Morton (Pat) Zimmerman of Detroit to the commission to succeed Cassin whose term expired Jan. 8. The term is for four years.

Zimmerman is an assistant to President Frank X. Martel of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor.

Cassin, also an AFL officer, accused Chairman Tom Downs last year before a Republican-dominated senate investigating committee of altering commission minutes without the knowledge of the entire commission and of other "irregularities."

longing to those who are afraid. Born in Sauk Center, Minn., on Feb. 7, 1885, Lewis after student days at Yale and working on newspapers and magazines, became one of the great social historians among American novelists. His books blasted the foibles of "typically American" people and communities of the 1920's and 1930's with biting satire and down-to-earth realism.

"Elmer Gantry," story of an evangelist with unministerial appetites, aroused a religious storm. Business men railed at "Babbitt" and "Dodsworth."

Germany and Italy in the mid-1930's banned "It Can't Happen Here," a warning against Fascism in the United States.

Lewis was married twice. Both his first wife, Grace Livingstone Heger, and Miss Thompson divorced him.

Wells Lewis, son by his first marriage and an army lieutenant in World War II, was killed in action in France. Michael Lewis, his son by Miss Thompson, has been studying dramatics in London.

Chicago Teamsters Union Agent Shot In Gang Style Ambush

CHICAGO — (AP)—Police hunted for clues today in the latest outbreak of violence against the AFL Teamsters union after a business agent was shot and wounded in gang style ambush last night.

A tall, gray-coated gunman pumped seven bullets into the automobile of Al Ceas, 42, as he entered the car in front of his west side home to drive to a union meeting. Two bullets struck Ceas in the left shoulder. He was taken to a hospital where physicians said his condition was not serious.

Ceas was the third official of the Teamsters Local 705 to have been shot at within the last eight months. The shooting came 24 hours after William A. Lee, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, disclosed that he is under 24-hour police guard because, he said, hoodlums had made attempts to muscle into the AFL bakery drivers' union.

Changes In Selective Service Studied

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall urged Congress today to approve a draft of 18 year olds for 27 months service to build up the nation's fighting forces.

He told a Senate armed services subcommittee that a system of "universal military service and training represents what I believe is the best way to meet our immediate need for enlarged combat forces and at the same time, to provide an enduring base for our military strength."

Expires July 9
Marshall, former army chief of staff and former secretary of war, was the first witness at what Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) of the subcommittee said would be an overall hearing on manpower problems.

Under the present draft law, boys of 18 are required to register but they cannot be drafted until they reach age 19. Their service after induction is limited to 21 months.

The present draft law expires next July 9. The Senate subcommittee hearings are aimed at determining how long the law should be extended and with what changes.

Marshall said he felt 18 year olds should be called for actual service and combat.

"The program proposes that young men reaching the age of 18 fulfill their obligation for the nation's defense by entering the armed forces for 27 months of service and training," Marshall said.

"Immediately thereafter they would enroll for a specified term in a reserve component."

Rapid Buildup Wanted
In his state of the union message of Monday, President Truman called for extension and revision of the draft law but did not say what changes he wanted.

Mr. Truman did call for a rapid buildup of the armed forces to a strength of about 3,500,000 men and women. At the same time he said:

"We do not know how long Communist aggression will threaten the world."

This led some lawmakers to suggest an indefinite extension and tightening up of the present selective service act, now due to expire July 9. Some even talked about an extension of 10 to 20 years.

Bridges, senior Republican on the armed services committee, told a reporter he doubts that Congress would approve such an extension.

Too Young At 18
"I think we should extend selective service for two or three years at the most," he said. "That would give Congress a chance to resurvey the entire manpower problem in light of developments."

Pentagon spokesmen already have talked about lowering the induction age to 18 years, instead of the present 19-year-old minimum, and extending the present 21 months of service required to as long as 30 months.

Taft questioned drafting 18 year olds as "a little young" and suggested taking youths 18 1/2 years of age "perhaps for probably at least two years service."

At the end of such service, Taft said, these youths should be able to get out and somebody else should take their place.

Eighth Army Takes Over Control Of News From Korea

TOKYO — (AP)—The U. S. Eighth Army tomorrow takes over from General MacArthur's headquarters complete control of news of Allied ground fighting in Korea.

This includes official summaries of the ground action and censorship of stories by field correspondents.

The Eighth Army is commanded by Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who succeeded Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker who was killed recently in a jeep accident.

Col. M. P. Echols, MacArthur's chief information officer, announced today that Tokyo headquarters henceforth would cease issuing "Korean releases pertaining to military operations."

Far East air forces will continue to release—and now censor—in information on aerial operations. News of naval activities will be cleared by commander naval forces, Far East.

Allied Force Gets Back In Wonju, Korean Road Hub

storm Tuesday. They fought through a hail of enemy mortar and small arms fire.

Wonju controls a web of roads leading into the heart of South Korea.

The attack by the second division veterans of the Nakdong and Chongchon river battles was the biggest United Nations offensive effort in days.

"We are in contact with North Koreans now and we intend to get them hell," the Allied commander said as the attack started.

Guns Sweep Valley
Correspondent Barnard said the battle scene was like a Christmas card picture, with majestic frosted mountains, a peaceful looking road and snow sifting down.

But murderous enemy fire from foothills . . . swept the valley and the road. The thunder of Allied artillery rolled continuously and echoed through the valley and around the peaks.

"Small arms fire crackled incessantly. Enemy mortar fire found the road."

The French-American force obviously was fighting to throw off balance the Communist drive down Central Korea's mountain roads. The Red thurs' threatened the Caion-Taesu escape corridor for Eighth army forces withdrawing in the west toward the old Allied Pusan beachhead.

General MacArthur's Wednesday afternoon war summary said a "very large" Communist force strung along a 70-mile front from Osan to Wonju was "capable of mounting a powerful offensive supported in great depth."

MacArthur and Eighth army estimates placed the strength of the Red force along the Osan-Wonju line or in close reserve at possibly 280,000 troops.

Scotch Lass To Wed Marquette GI When He Gets Home Again

MARQUETTE, Mich. — (AP)—A bonnie lass came all the way from the highlands of Scotland to wed an American lad who wooed and won her by mail sight unseen. But she found they're still half a continent apart.

Thomasina Mullen, 20, blonde and attractive, can't see her fiancé or fix the wedding date until the Air Force gives him a furlough.

The courtship of Sgt. Emil Paquette, jr., 20, got international publicity last March. After exchanging letters and photos with the Scottish girl for several months, Paquette sent her an engagement ring.

Rut when the ring arrived in the United Kingdom, customs officials advised Miss Mullen she owed nearly $50 in import taxes. A London newspaper heard Miss Mullen didn't have the money to get the ring out of customs. It paid the bill in a fanfare of publicity.

Miss Mullen arrived here Dec. 31, a few days after Sgt. Paquette had to return to his air base in Rapid City, S. D. He had planned to marry her during his holiday furlough but his fiancée had been delayed by red tape over a visa.

Miss Mullen now is staying with Paquette's parents.

Wedding bells will ring when the air force permits.

Lansing Committee Plans Long Junket In Upper Peninsula

LANSING — (AP)—The Senate appropriations committee will junket to northern and western state institutions in the next two weeks for tours of inspection.

Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), the chairman, said he planned to start out Tuesday and return to Lansing the following week. Institutions not covered on the main trip will be touched in brief trips out from Lansing in the next few weeks, he said.

Porter said next week's tour will cover the branch college at Sault Ste. Marie, the Newberry state hospital, the Liquor Control commission warehouse at Escanaba and a proposal to build a state office building there, the tuberculosis sanatorium at Powers, prison camps, the Marquette branch prison, the Michigan College of Mining and Technology and the Northern Michigan College of Education.

Teachers Ask Raise

ANN ARBOR — (AP)—"Equal pay for equal work" has been asked for Ann Arbor's 235 public school teachers by the Ann Arbor teachers club. Submitting the proposed program to the board of education, "the club suggested a top salary for $5,600 yearly for a teacher with a master's degree. The present top is $1,100 lower. Men teachers now receive more than women.

Russians May Be Stumbling Into Third World War

given secret commitments to Tito. Another Soviet engineered pass at Greece would deeply involve the United States and Great Britain, with their Mediterranean and United Nations interests.

Turkey, now fighting gallantly with American troops in Korea, is in a similar situation.

The easy days of country snatching in eastern Europe are gone. Whether the Kremlin recognizes this remains to be seen. Like Hitler it may be encouraged by past successes to make another try.

This is the grave danger Europeans feel as they wait for the Russians' next move. Since 1945 the Kremlin has moved aggressively year after year. What will they do this year?

This brings up the question of when

Decision By Spring
Any political move would have to be backed by Soviet military might.

Starting in April most of Europe is favorable to military operations. By the end of September the most favorable period passes.

This is looked upon as the prime possible war period in a year of decision. If the Soviets have decided to risk aggression, they probably will never have a more favorable time.

Western Europe is now at its military weakest. Its morale is low. Many countries are divided by political quarrels. Although steadily declining, the influence of Communist Fifth columns is still potent in key areas. The United States has not yet rearmed and has only a handful of troops in Europe. Great Britain is in a similar fix.

The western military situation in Europe can not get worse; it can only get better. Therefore it may be felt from the Soviet point of view 1951 would be the year to strike.

The big deterrent is the atom bomb, which Winston Churchill believes is the only thing now stopping the Soviet from embarking on an all-out world conquest.

What can the west do in the event of attack, particularly this year? Should more troops be sent to Europe? Should the United States withdraw?

Weaknesses Analyzed
Despite its tremendous advantages in manpower, trained troops and vast ground strength, the Soviet Union would have definite military weaknesses in fighting in Europe, particularly in an extended campaign.

These are:
1. Low industrial capacity for their vast manpower. Soviet steel production is about one fifth that of the United States.

2. Long and vulnerable lines of communication to western Europe.

New Tax Proposed In Lansing To Get Around Loopholes

posing the sales tax on all used car sales would enhance the diversion allocations to local governments. So Higgins proposed a new state tax on the used car sales of three per cent.

All Or None
Higgins said he felt his industrial processing tax was "fairer" than Governor Williams' controversial corporation profits tax. He said it would be deductible from federal income taxes and "eventually be written off by manufacturers."

In the House, seven bills to implement the Michigan good roads federation program for revamping highway administration and finances were filed.

Included is a proposal to increase the state gasoline tax from three to five cents a gallon and hoist weight (license) taxes on commercial and farm vehicles.

Sponsors said they would insist all be passed or none.

It is the fourth time the federation program has been shunted into the legislative turmoil without passage.

An additional $30,000,000 a year in road money is expected from the increased taxes proposed.

New Carrier To Cost $235,000,000 May Be Named For Forrestal

WASHINGTON — (AP)—There was informal talk today that the proposed 60,000-ton aircraft carrier be named for the late James Forrestal, first secretary of defense.

This possibility was brought up as Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) assembled the House Armed Services committee into closed session to hear testimony from Admiral Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, on the Navy's new $2,000,000,000 shipbuilding program.

After hearing Sherman, the committee unanimously approved a bill authorizing the program.

Vinson told reporters the program provides for construction of 173 new ships and a modification and conversion of 291 existing vessels.

He said the committee got an estimate that the giant aircraft carrier will cost $235,000,000 to construct.

3. Uncertain satellite loyalty, particularly if the Soviet should start losing or show signs of military weakness.

Unquestionably the Soviet Union could gain great initial victories just as Hitler did. Holding their initial gains would be another matter. Western military defense plans are designed to take advantage of Soviet weaknesses.

First there is the atom bomb. A Soviet attack would be met with an all out air assault by the United States and Britain with the atom bomb.

Its aim would be to rip the industrial heart out of the Soviet Union if possible and further reduce its comparatively small producing capacity. It would have the further aim of smashing long Soviet rail lines of communication and cutting off sources of war supplies.

Trade Space For Men
It is 2,200 air line miles from the Ural mountains—major manufacturing area in the Soviet Union—to the English channel. All communication is over a thin, largely antiquated rail system.

Western aims would be to hamstring Soviet manpower in Europe by knocking out home bases and leaving armies stranded.

To do this it is necessary in event of attack to make Soviet armies in Europe use up their stockpiles of supplies. For this reason it is essential the west have ground forces in western Europe which force the Soviet to fight, if even on the smallest scale.
